

In August-September 2011 recent LL.M. graduates Lusine Khanamiryan and Vanane Ararktsyan participated in the Alpbach Summer School on European Integration 2011 which is a part of the European Alpbach Forum. European Forum Alpbach has been organized ever since 1945 in the picturesque Tyrolean mountain village of Alpbach. Alpbach Summer School offers a compact yet comprehensive course on law and policies of the European Union (EU). Students from Austria and other countries, particularly from central and east-European states enjoyed the challenge of an intensive learning experience in a multicultural atmosphere. The students enjoyed presentations by many outstanding academic professionals, scientists and practitioners working in a variety of fields and disciplines of the social and natural sciences, as well as politicians and artists. Presentations were made by such remarkable professionals as Mr. Josef Azizi, a judge of the General Court (European Union), the president of the Czech Republic Mr. Vaclav Klaus, and others. At the end of the course students were awarded diplomas on successful completion of the Alpbach Summer School on European Integration 2011.
